

WAKO Policy

- Solidarity & Social Integration -

Kickboxing is a fantastic medium and sport that can be used to promote and create social and competitive activity, integrated understanding and develop friendships. Kickboxing breaks down barriers relating to language and social integration and problems. WAKO encourages all national federations to work strategically to use the power of kickboxing as an effective tool to:

- Fight against discrimination of any and all kinds
- Adjust do integrate and support disabilities
- Work towards integration in general
- Integrate and ease the poverty
- Adapt Kickboxing to exposed groups
- Focus on solidarity and charity
- Create positive social interaction
- Create positive competitive interaction
- Create an awareness of the positive aspects of social, political and religious differences

Kickboxing with its variety of disciplines and training methods is an effective social tool for

- Training and recreation
- Mental satisfaction
- Creating discipline
- Understanding respect
- Raising awareness
- Understanding friendship
- Understanding differences
- Creating awareness

Dare to be and to think "outside the box" and to take your social responsibility at a personal and team level.

WAKO will/have established various projects but will also correlate and support the various projects that exists nationally in order to give you the inspiration to adapt one or more projects for your use from partner national federations. The more we can learn from each other the better, so lets learn and share in a collective and collaborative fashion.

Thinking naturally on solidarity or charity is also effective in order to create acceptance, understanding and build on reputation and tolerance. We need it and you need it, and along the way we help people training for physical, recreational and personal development and satisfaction.

In connection to this section we will share with you some of the social projects our members have and we hope it will give you some input and some inspiration.
